Interlocking Concrete Pavement Institute (ICPI)

The Interlocking Concrete Pavement Institute (ICPI) was formed by the manufacturers of concrete pavers to promote their use through education of high installation guidelines. Success as an installer of concrete pavers requires high-quality installations with sound business practices. The ICPI program establishes industry guidelines through this certification program, as well as other continuing education courses.

Why a Certification Program?

Several thousand companies throughout North America engage in the manufacture of and/or installation of interlocking concrete pavements. Your company may be one of them. These companies work with landscaping, segmental retaining walls, and concrete pavers. Their backgrounds represent a wide range of technical, business and marketing skills.
